

this power of rendering the rice grain diastatic, an effect which has hitherto been attributed only to the germination of the embryo, the question whether the effect is a general one or not, must be left to professed vegetable physiologists.

In conclusion, the pleasant task remains to me of expressing my obligations, and offering my thanks to Hiroyuki Kato, Esq., President of the University of Tôkiô, who has rendered my task a comparatively easy one, by the assistance he has given me in various ways. To Mr. Jihei Kameyama also, the proprietor of the kôji manufactory in Yûshima, Tôkiô, I am deeply indebted for the willingness with which I have been allowed to make experiments, and to collect information in his works. I wish also to thank my assistant, Mr. Nakazawa, for the interest he has taken in the research, and for much assistance which I have received from him.
